

5 October 2017

VIENNA STOCK EXCHANGE LISTING

European Lithium Limited (ASX:EUR) (VSE:ELI) (the Company) is pleased to advise that the Company has been admitted to the Vienna Stock Exchange (VSE) and has dual listed its ordinary shares under the ticker symbol ELI. Trading on the VSE is expected to commence on 9 October 2017.

EUR is the first Australian company to be honoured with being admitted to the VSE. Admission to the VSE is an important milestone for the Company and is designed to increase exposure of the Company and its Austrian located Wolfsberg Lithium project to European investors. The VSE listing allows Austrian institutions and private wealth clients that previously have been excluded from investing in the Australian listed company to now do so.

EUR's Chairman, Tony Sage, said "the listing provides a huge benefit to the Company as it allows us to source new shareholders from this very wealthy constituency." He further added "the VSE is one of the oldest stock exchanges in the world and we expect the dual listing will deliver enhanced liquidity and greater access to capital by increasing the exposure of our world class Wolfsberg project to potential investors."

About the Vienna Stock Exchange

Founded in 1771, the Vienna Stock Exchange, is one of the oldest stock exchanges in the world. The Vienna Stock Exchange is the driving force behind a transparent Austrian capital market. By providing state-of-the-art infrastructure and technology, engaging in product innovation and taking comprehensive measures to advance investment culture in Austria, the Vienna Stock Exchange contributes to strengthening the domestic capital market and its international competitiveness.

Tony Sage
Non-Executive Chairman
European Lithium Limited

END